

George S. Dennis fonds

1940-1960

90 min. video tape

Biographical Sketch

George S. Dennis, a former CPR employee, collects things relating to the era when steam was used for locomotives on Canadian railways.

Scope and Content

Series A 56/1/1 - videotape

A compilation video tape entitled "When Steam was King". Includes amateur films by George Dennis taken during the 1940s and 1950s. Shows the various types of locomotives, cars, stations, towns and people who served on the line. Some are in colour while others are in black and white and the video tape is narrated by George S. Dennis. The films were transferred to video tape in 1988.

Additional Information

Copy/Repository - The original films are in the possession of George Dennis.